The Digital Transformation of Law

Presented by: Larry Bridgesmith J.D., CEO of LegalAlignment LLC, USA

Digital data is doubling every day in the wake of COVID. This is due to an exponential increase in the applications and users of software solutions to life's challenges and opportunities. Some have labeled these data reserves "the new oil". The business and the practice of law stands to gain or lose economic value and relevance depending on its response to the digital transformation reshaping every business sector.

How will Artificial Intelligence (AI), Machine Learning (ML) and Natural Language Processing (NLP) affect your practice? This session will demonstrate how data science will impact the practice of law and what to do about it.

International Humanitarian Law (IHL) - Rules In War

Presented by: Nedra L. Wick, Esq., USA

This introductory course to the rules seeking to limit the effects of armed conflict for humanitarian reasons, International Humanitarian Law (IHL), focuses on the history, sources, and limitations of the laws related to the challenges of regulating the means and methods of contemporary warfare in the 21st century. The session seeks to provide a working understanding and application of the Geneva Conventions and additional protocols in addition to other treaties and customary law defining IHL. Other topics include the unique role of the International Committee of the Red Cross in IHL including oversight and absolute neutrality. Concepts of enforcement and punishment in IHL as well as key differences between IHL and International Human Rights Law (IHRL) are also explored.

Tour to Kilmainham Gaol (time to be announced)

For over 100 years Kilmainham Gaol held thousands of men, women and children for crimes that ranged from minor offences to being involved in some of the most momentous events in Irish history

A visit to Kilmainham Gaol will take you on a journey through Irish history. You will discover the stories of people held here as ordinary criminals alongside those who fought for Irish independence. From the 1798 rebellion, to the 1916 Easter Rising, the Anglo-Irish War (1919-21), to the devastation of the Irish Civil War (1922-23) all these important events have a chapter in the story of Kilmainham Gaol.

The European Union Powerful Legal Architecture and Its Law-Making Institutions

Presented by: Professor Dermot Cahill, Ireland

Professor Cahill will address the role of Law and Supranational Institutions in underpinning the longevity and endurance of the European Union, looking at the main legal doctrines, law-making institutions, methods of law making, and methods of legal interpretation of the European Union legal framework, as well as the relationship between the Court of Justice and the national EU Member States' judicial systems. The lecture introduces participants to the legal and political framework and institutions of the European Union, including the European Commission, the Council of Ministers, the Court of Justice, the Court of Auditors, and the European Parliament. The lecture examines the interlocking web of European treaties, the expansion of the EU, the EU as a trade block, and Ireland as a gateway to the EU or non-bloc nations (e.g., USA) enterprises, goods and services, and plans for future integration of the bloc.

The legal and political framework and institutions of the European Union and how they contrast with US Federal law-making institutions will be considered, as will their interaction with each other in the law-making and dispute resolution process; the different types of EU legislation will be considered and how they apply across the EU Member States; the composition and role of the European Commission shall be considered, both as the proposer of new EU laws and as Enforcer of EU Law, as well as its role in global merger control which can adversely affect mergers in the USA; the composition and role of the Council (of Ministers) as EU law-making body; the composition and role of the European Council; the composition and role of the Court of Justice and its judicial dialogue with Member State Courts, as well as its jurisdiction to hear enforcement actions brought by the Commission or Private or State parties; the role and powers of the European Central Bank vis the Euro currency; and the role of the European Parliament in law-making, and its relationship with the Council.

The lecture also has a substantial international comparative focus (US vs EU) and also contextualizes the EU within the socio-legal environment of the host country (Ireland).

Participants acquire substantial international and comparative focus during this lecture by becoming familiar with the European Union legal framework; its major judicial and law-making institutions; and its case law, doctrines, and legislation. This enables participants to reflect and make apt comparisons with corresponding US law-making processes and legal principles, giving them a broader world view both in terms of legal and socio-legal perspectives.

The Greatest Show on Earth: The European Union's Four Freedoms of Goods, Services, Corporations and Money. Why US corporations use Ireland as their European HQ

Professor Cahill will introduce us to the Four Freedoms which underpin the world's largest free trading area, the European Union. The relationship between the EU's Four Freedoms and National Laws is considered, as is the Single European Act Treaty and the subsequent development of the EU's Internal Market. Consideration of the Four Freedoms covers:

Law Society of Ireland

1. The Free Movement of Goods (the Prohibition on Border Tariffs; the Permissible Tolerances of Non-Discriminatory Internal Taxation; The Prohibition on Quantitative Restrictions between EU Member States; tariff and quota-free trade between EU Member States and how US corporations in Europe benefit from this regime;
2. The Free Movement of Workers and Residence in other EU Member States;
3. The Free Movement of Services & The Freedom of Establishment for Corporations and Professionals in the EU;
4. Freedom of Capital & the Euro.

This course will confer on participants knowledge of one of the world's major legal orders and how the Four Freedoms underpin European Integration and are continuously reshaped by Court of Justice Jurisprudence. US based clients contemplating doing business in the European Union will require advice on strategic issues when considering trading inside the EU's 27 Member States, whether in taxation, workers rights, tariffs, cross-border provision of services and establishment of corporations, freedom of capital etc.. The lecture will conclude with some examples from Professor Cahill showing how the European Commission can exercise its global jurisdiction to prohibit mergers taking place in the US even though the corporations concerned have no European presence.

DAOs for Justice
Presented by: Larry Bridgesmith J.D., CEO of LegalAlignment LLC, USA

Emerging technologies like blockchain, cryptocurrency and NFT's are proving to be more than toys for the techies to play with. A new global economy is developing around them. The foundations of Web 3.0 are being built in which the huge quantities of digital data each of us generates daily is retained by us and deployed as we see fit.

Decentralized Autonomous Organizations (DAOs) are created for the benefit of their members to democratize the use of data and generate economic benefit. They can remove most of the transaction costs of the legal supply chain and provide access to justice for many who currently lack the economic means to obtain legal representation.

DAOs deployed for access to justice can automate an economic exchange on behalf of both legal service providers and their clients through "smart contracts".

This session will illustrate how a global "tokenomics" industry will become a trusted economic model for justice.

When Every Day Becomes the Lost Weekend: The Ethical Challenges Presented by Attorney Alcohol Abuse
Presented by: Matthew J. McKeown, Esq., USA

Alcohol does not discriminate in its ability to disrupt the lives of those who abuse it. Not only are licensed attorneys not immune to this simple fact, but there is ample evidence to suggest that alcohol abuse by attorneys far exceeds the habits of the general public and other kinds of highly educated professionals.

The reason for the prevalence of this problem among lawyers could be as simple as a profession-wide failure to understand and accept the fact that alcoholism is a disease. As such, it cannot be overcome by advocacy, argument, or negotiation.

This session will focus on the conduct that this illness can generate that causes attorneys to risk violating the Rules of Professional Responsibility. Model Rules of Professional Responsibility 8.3 and 8.4 are now being regularly relied upon by multiple jurisdictions to discipline attorneys for everything from creating hostile work environments, compromising the interests of their clients and as sanctions for criminal conduct by licensed attorneys. And the common factor that lurks behind all these ethic challenges for practitioners is the abuse of alcohol.

You will not leave this session with the skills needed to be an alcohol abuse counselor. But you will be equipped with the knowledge to know when behavior that is rooted in the disease of alcohol abuse becomes behavior that puts an attorney at risk for violating the Rules of Professional Responsibility.
